this absorbing study examines the change in american relations with china after 1949 from hostility to rapprochement and to full normalization of the ties in 1979 rosemary foot goes on to examine the relationship after normalization a period when the united states has come to view china as less of a challenge but still resistant to certain of the norms of the current international order the book begins by examining us efforts to build and then maintain an international and domestic consensus behind its china policy it then looks at changing us perceptions of the capabilities of the chinese state it shows how american positions on chinese representation at the un and on the trade embargo were subtly eroded not least by changes in us domestic public opinion the author argues that previous explanations of american relations with china have dwelt too single mindedly on ideas associated with the strategic triangle and that instead we need to embed our understanding of the evolution of american relations with china within a wider structure of relationships at the global and domestic level reviews a valuable interpretative analysis of us people s republic of china relationships she substantially contributes to post soviet era theoretical understanding strongly recommended for courses in foreign policy diplomatic history and international relations choice contains much that is valuable to those whose interests are primarily on the other side of the pacific the chapter on american public opinion and chinese policy is also something which is not readily found in existing accounts of china a post 1949 foreign relations times higher education supplement her analysis remains cautious and astute the economist with the constitution of power mark haugaard provides an introduction to the analysis of social and political power and discusses the relationship between power structure and knowledge this book asserts that there exists a causal relationship between identity interest and the exercise of power the work defines power as the ability to satisfy oneself which makes power contingent upon belief it also dissects the concepts of identity interest and power to reveal how each works and relate to the others this analysis creates a new theory of power using constructivism informed by critical theory departing from neorealist and neoliberal perspectives the work uses the united states to test the theory by examining us national identity interest and exercises of power a deconstruction of american exceptionalism proceeds three case studies and runs as a theme to connect each unifying the work a military operation in 2016 against the islamic state in libya the 2014 russian annexation of crimea and the whiplash caused by us participation in the 2015 paris agreement serve as the three case studies for analyzing us identity interest and power through the theory this work proposes a new way of understanding power based on constructivism and informed by critical theory that applies to interpersonal and international relationships every relation is a power relation and power is the ability to satisfy oneself this book provides insight into the underlying causes and machinations that transpire within every kind of social relation this is a significant shift in how power is understood and applied in politics the military business and interpersonal relationships this book seeks to provide the reader with greater and clearer understanding of themselves the world in which they live and why it exists as such
